TALK ON ADVERTISING Given Bridgeport Men's League by J.

B. Wynkoop of New Haven Road. John B. Wynkoop of the advertising department of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad gave a very interesting talk on advertising, and particularly the advertising of a great railroad, at the meeting of the Men's league of the People's Presbyterian church in Bridgeport this week. Mr. Wynkoop said that successful advertising was simply telling the truth in a convincing way by means of printers' ink. He outlined some of the qualifications necessary in the advertising manager who would be above the dead level of mediocrity and set a rather high standard for those who would rise to eminence.

He showed how the personal note must dominate the advertising of any

He showed how the personal note must dominate the advertising of any commodity, whether dry goods or transportation, and cited the change in the policy of the New Haven road from the old system of running only timetables in great dailies and little weeklies to the present practice of telling some definite story about some definite feature of the service or equipment or territory of the road, whether rail or marine department, which made each advertisement distinctive and reeach advertisement distinctive and re-sultful.

"Only that form or method of ad-"Only that form or method of advertising is truly successful," he said, "which is able to bring the reader to the barsain counter for dry goods, or to the ticket window for pasteboards. It may be a news item; it may be a displayed 'ad.'; it may be a beoklet; it may be a personal or follow-up letter. But it must have in it the personality of the writer and it must ever be directed to the personality of the reader. The personal equation must never be lost."

Messrs, Jones and Maddox of the Yale forestry school, who have been engaged in making a survey of the state park in the eastern part of the state park in the eastern part of the town of Portland, have finished the work and returned to New Haven. The survey has been in progress for about a month, under the direction of the state park supervisor, John C. Reeves. The survey shows the park to contain between 1,200 and 1,300 acres of land. This is mostly woodland, secured by the state at a low price, and which by state aid is being taken care of in the most advanced and scientific manner. Only the best kind of trees suited to this locality are planted so that in ten or afteen kind of trees suited to this locality are planted, so that in ten or lifteen years the state will own a tract of the woodland and one that under a careful system of lumbering will yield a handsome revenue.
